DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed on October 29, 2003, canceling claims 6-7 and 23-25, has been entered.

Claims 1-5, 8-9 and 26-32 are pending.

The indicated allowability of claims 3-4, 8-9 and 26-31 is withdrawn in view of the rejection under 112, 1st paragraph.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 3-4, 8-9, 26 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The claims are drawn to a DNA molecule that hybridizes to the DNA molecule encoding SEQ ID NO:1 with no limitations to the function of the encoded polypeptides. Therefore, this claim is drawn to a large variable genus of polynucleotides encoding polypeptides having unknown activity or inactive variants. The specification does not describe the function of all the polypeptide sequences derived or modified from SEQ ID NO:1 and therefore, many functionally unrelated polynucleotides are encompassed within the scope of these claims. Therefore, applicants fail to describe representative species by identifying characteristics or functional characteristics other than hybridizing to DNA molecules encoding SEQ ID NO:1.

Given this lack of description of the representative species encompassed by the genus of the claims, the specification fails to sufficiently describe the claimed invention in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms that a skilled artisan would recognize that applicants were in possession of the inventions of claims 3-4, 8-9, 26 and 29.

Claim 3-4, 8-9, 26 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification does not reasonably provide enablement for polynucleotides encoding polynucleotide having unknown function. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Factors to be considered in determining whether undue experimentation is required are summarized in In re Wands 858 F.2d 731, 8 USPQ2nd 1400 (Fed. Cir. 1988). They include (1) the quantity of experimentation necessary, (2) the amount of direction or guidance presented, (3) the presence or absence of working examples, (4) the nature of the invention, (5) the state of the prior art, (6) the relative skill of those in the art, (7) the predictability or unpredictability of the art, and (8) the breadth of the claims.

The claims are drawn to polynucleotides encoding polypeptides having unknown function. The claims broadly encompass not only vatE genes, but any polynucleotides hybridizing to polynucleotides encoding SEQ ID NO:1. Therefore, the breadth of these claims is much larger than the scope enabled by the specification.

The specification does teach how to make variants of polynucleotides encoding SEQ ID NO:1. However, the function of a polypeptide can not be predicted from its structure and the specification does not teach how to use polypeptides with unknown function. The quantity of experimentation in this area is extremely large since there is significant variability in the activity of the polynucleotides in the claims. It would require significant study to identify the actual function of the encoded polypeptides and identifying a use for the polypeptide would be an inventive, unpredictable and difficult undertaking. This would require years of inventive effort, with each of the many intervening steps, upon effective reduction to practice, not providing any guarantee of success in the succeeding steps.

The art is extremely unpredictable with regard to protein function in the absence of realizable information regarding its activity. Even very similar proteins may have every different functions. In the current case, where no specific information is known regarding the function, it is entirely unpredictable what function and activity will be found for the protein. The prior art does not resolve this ambiguity, since no prior art activity is identified for the encoded polypeptides.

Therefore, one of ordinary skill would require guidance in order to use polynucleotides encoding polypeptides having unknown function in a manner reasonably correlated with the scope of the claims. Without such guidance, the experimentation left to those skilled in the art is undue.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-2, 5 and 32 are allowed.

Claims 27-28 and 30-31 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
